John C. Chapman, formerly manager of the Norwich ball team, was in town on Sunday and Monday on business, and in talking over the baseball situation was favorably impressed with the idea of starting a strictly state league. He inquired with much interest as to the progress which had been made towards the formation of it and was of the opinion that a good league could be started with a salary limit of $900.

of $900.

The salary limit is one great trouble with the present league, he said. There are less than half the teams which can afford it where it is and make money, but with it down to $900 it should be a good proposition and at the same time furnish good ball.

He was much pleased at the success Jack Tighe is making in Rock Island, where they have named a cigar after him and have gotten out posters with a fine picture of the genial Jack. Mr. Chapman was heartly greeted by his old-time acquaintances.

SEWER ASSESSMENTS OPPOSED

Many Appeared Before Committee at Hearing on Crescent and Roath Street Sewers-Considered that City Should Meet the Cost-John Donovan Declared Roath Street Sewer was Illegally Constructed if Assessment

At a hearing which lasted over an hour on Monday evening and at which many spoke, the committee appointed by the court of common council heard those who it was claimed would be benefited by the Crescent and Roath street sewers. With one exception, none of the speakers considered that there was any benefit from the sewers which they should pay for, and it was the general opinion that the city should meet the expense of both. The exception was when C. R. Butts stated that he would not oppose a slight assessment in the case of the Norwich club.

The entire committee was in attendance, including Mayor Lippitt, Alderman Stetson and Councilmen Woodworth and Lester. The Crescent street sewer was taken up first by request. This sewer was built from Broad street through Crescent street to a point near the Free Academy, at a cost of $2,055.95.

Attorney J. J. Desmond appeared for the following: Dr. and Mrs. W. S. C. Perkins, Mary G. Osgood, Martha L. Osgood, Gertrude Browne, Angelina P. Fuller, Emma F. Carroll, Jennie L. Reid and Emerson P. Turner.

He said that from investigation given to the matter the claim is that they are not benefited in any manner. The property owners were all supplied he-way and the old Crescent street sew-er, not only then but for all reason-able prospective use.

The sewer recently constructed was

The sewer recently constructed was built at a far greater expense than necessary, if a sewer had been needed by them. Such a tax as this is leviable only where the owners of property are benefited. When there is sewage through one street and property abuts on another it can hardly be said it is benefited by the second sewer.

Mr. Desmond was of the opinion that all the abutting property is not included in the list to be benefited.

Mr. Chandler explained that Mr. Bard had a sewer on three sides of his property and has paid for those been assessed.

been assessed.

Dr. Lewellyn Pratt, president of the Academy corporation, said that the benefit that comes from the laying of the sewer is not for the Academy as an institution, but is for the benefit of city.

Principal H. A. Tirrell said that the Academy is being conducted for the benefit of Norwich at a cost of $75 to $80 a pupil, from which they get only from $15 to $45 each. The more pupils the Academy has the poorer it gets. He considered that the Academy should not be obliged to meet an assessment, nor that the other property owners should. It was constructed as a benefit for Norwich, and the city should meet the expense.

C. H. Butts, for Mrs. Richards, declared that her property is not bene-fited as the Broadway sewer cares for fited as the Broadway sewer cares for that property and there is not enough on Crescent street for another building. Should there be, it would be easier to get to Broadway sewer through a shallow trench than into the deep Crescent street sewer.

As to the Norwich club, J. Ralph Howe stated that it had a cesspool which meets all requirements. When Mr. Butts was asked about the Norwich club he said that he could not oppose a slight assessment there.

Prank W. Browning stated that the sewer is no benefit to Park church property, touching only a corner of the property. The church and Osgood Me-morial are sewered into Broadway

Roath Street Sewer.

When the Roath street sewer matter was taken up, that having been constructed at a cost of $362.47, and eleven people notified that they were considered especially benefited by it, ex-Street Commissioner John Donovan opened up strong, being fortified with a city charter, common council reports and legal decisions. He asked a long list of questions, some of which were answered and others were not. He wanted to know by what authority the sewer was built, if a detailed statement of the cost had been made to the city meeting, who petitioned for it, what the assessment is, what the city will pay, how many there were not connected with a sewer and why the er and catch basin account.

He was told, either by the mayor or corporation counsel, that it was included in the $4,900 appropriated by the city for sewers and catch basins, the latter explaining that it cannot always be foreseen just what will come up during the year.

Mr. Donovan asked if it was considered.

Mr. Donovan asked if it was considered that the requirement of the char-ter had been met as to giving a detailed statement of the estimates, and Corporation Counsel Briscoe stated that it was so considered. He then said he would await the decision of the committee and if he was assessed he would take the matter to the courts. It was his claim that the council was never authorized by the city meeting to build that sewer. The $4,000, he maintained, was for work to be done at public expense as the different ways. maintained, was for work to be done at public expense, as the citizens were given to understand, but the sewer was never authorized and it is therefore illegally done and without authority, unless the city meets the expense. He declared he would not pay an assessment and created some he was determined to get a decision on the matter that way.

He mainthined that only one house needed a sewer there. He said he had two vacant lots on the street which he might convert into a cemetery and therefore they would be exempt. (Laughter.) A private drain to one house, he said, would have satisfied all the demands there as far as the residents of the street were concerned, but the carrying off of the surface water was the chief point at stake thege.

Mr. Briscoe informed him that by the charter he considered the council acted purely within its rights.

James Hankins said he couldn't see

Mr. Donovan was anxious to learn if any more sewers were to be built out of the $4,000 appropriation, for he considered the expenditures for the work of the year with the Roath and Crescent street sewers could all be met out of it. Street Commissioner Fellows, when asked, stated that it was first intended to carry off the water in Roath street by connecting with the catch basins in Cliff street, but Health Officer Lewis state that there were two places which should have sewers, and for that reason it was built through Roath street. son it was built through Roath street. This, he said, was decided upon after the appropriation was made. The hearing closed shortly after nine, and the commission held a meeting thereafter to consider the mat-

OBITUARY.

Dr. Charles E. Jones. Dr. Charles E. Jones of Hartford passed away peacefully about four o'clock Monday morning, in this city, after an illness of over nine months. The cause of death was a general nervous collapse, brought on by overwork and excessive mental strain.

Dr. Jones was born in Best Hartford May 29, 1855. He was graduated from the public schools of Hartford and after devoting six years to life insurance in connection with the New an institution, but is for the benefit of those who attend the school. It is for the benefit of the city and not for those who represent it as a corporation. They asked for it when extra advantages were to be given to the pupils of the city. For fifty years the Academy has stood in the place of a high school, which would cost not less than $15,000 to $20,000 a year. The betterment is for the benefit of the city.

Principal H. A. Tirrell said that the Academy is being conducted for the benefit of Norwich at a cost of $75 to $80 a pupil, from which they get only from $15 to $45 each. The more pupils the Academy has the poorer it gets. He considered that the Academy has the poorer it gets.

pupils the Academy has the poorer it gets. He considered that the Academy should not be obliged to meet an assessment, nor that the other property owners should. It was constructed as a benefit for Norwich, and the city should meet the expense.

F. J. Leavens called attention to the fact that the Academy is spending $35,000 a year for the children of Norwich through its trust funds and receives back but $7,000. The improvements there are being made because they are needed and will mean an expenditure of $100,000. While it is a necessity to have the sewer, it is a public benefit as it is for the pupils.

Attorney John P. Huntington represented the Rockwell property, which he said is fully provided for by other sewers and is not benefited by the new one. He considered it should not be assessed.
